PURE RELIGION, UNTARNISHED DEMOCRACY AND GOOD GOVERNMENT.

LANCASTER, KY., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1911.

NUMBER 30.

TWENTY SECOND YEAR.

HEATING AND PLUMBING.

We use the best material the market affords. Let us make you an estimate on your wants.

We install the Pneumatic Water System in country homes.

All inquiries cheerfully answered.

CONN BROTHERS

Lancaster, Ky.

Mrs. George Grow Undergoes Operation.

Mrs. George Grow of Hackley underwent a serious operation at the Lancaster hospital last Thursday. She stood it well, has recovered from the shock and is getting along nicely.

Mr. Lafayette Brown Dead.

The remains of Mr. Lafayette Brown were buried at the Lancaster cemetery on Tuesday. Mr. Brown was a farmer and splendid citizen of the Lowell neighborhood. He was about 70 years of age and had been sick for a long while.

Not Just Yet.

On October 28th 1910 the first snow of the season fell in this section. Last Friday, the 28th gave fair promise of giving a repetition of last years performance, however it fared off and turned warmer and we are saved for a while from a fall of the beautiful.

Their Business Increasing.

The Garrard Milling Co. are erecting a mammoth warehouse on their mill lot, which will be used as a storage warehouse. Although this firm already has a large building, their business has assumed such proportions in the last year as to force them to look out for more room.

'Tis An Ill Wind That Blows No One Good.

While the recent depression in the hog market is the source of a great deal of anxiety, and the occasion of much complaint upon the part of the farmers, yet we town people who are compelled to buy our "fattening hogs", at killing time are rejoicing over the prospect of being able to secure them for in the neighborhood of a nickel a pound.

"The Frost Is On The Pumpkin".

Heavy frosts in the last week ripened pumpkins, possums and persimmons and many parties are visiting the mountains in search of the latter two delicacies. Especially are these excursions popular with the country lads and lassies and scarcely a day passes that a party is not seen going in the direction of Cartersville in search of chestnuts.

No Place Like Old Kentucky.

Mr. C. D. Powell has returned from a several months visit to relatives in Oregon. He tells us that his son, Robert Powell has purchased property and is making his home in Oakland, that he and his wife are well pleased with the country and will make it their future home. Mr. Powell was well pleased with the country, but not well enough to desert old Kentucky.

Bryan In Kentucky.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan made a whirlwind trip through Kentucky on October 30th and 31st, speaking in behalf of the Democratic state ticket. Mr. Bryan on this trip confined his attention to western Kentucky, coming no closer to the Blue Grass than Lebanon Junction, much to the regret of his many admirers in Central Kentucky.

Dr. Pursley Spreading Out.

Dr. J. J. Pursley, "Dakota Jack," Lancaster's "Medicine Man" is making an effort to introduce his remedies into every county in the state. He at present is devoting his attention to Lincoln county, and he tells us with splendid success. Dr. Pursley is a clever gentleman and his remedies can be depended upon to do exactly what he represents.

Change Of Residences.

Mr. Henry Simpson having sold his residence on Richmond avenue to Mrs. J. C. Robinson, is moving into the house recently completed by Mr. S. G. Haselden on South Campbell street. Mrs. Robinson will move into her property purchased of Mr. Simpson, and Mayor H. T. Logan and family, who have had rooms at the Kengarian, will occupy the property vacated by Mrs. Robinson.

"Jack" Burnside Joins Messenger Force.

Lewis Landram is now rejoicing in the possession of two former employees of the Record. Miss Bessie Crum, once with us, now is holding down cases on the Messenger, and Jack Terry Burnside has now gone over to help out. No wonder brother Landram is getting out a paper that is winning favorable comment, and incidentally, a fat subscription list.

New Seelbach Hotel In Lexington.

Messrs Charles and Julius Seelbach of Louisville have purchased the Leland Hotel in Lexington. They will remodel and completely overhaul it and it will be run after the style of the Louisville hostelry conducted by the Seelbachs. The name will be changed to the New Seelbach. The old Leland is a famous hostelry and in later years since the proprietor Billy Klair has come into political prominence, it has become headquarters for politicians and turfmens of the state.

Another Good Road.

The "Old Danville Pike" from the square to the county line has been reconstructed, thus adding one more to Garrard county's rapidly increasing number of good turnpikes. Automobiles, which have heretofore been compelled to go around by Camp Dick Robinson in going to Danville, will now find a splendid road in the newly constructed Danville pike. Squire Bourne is looking after and repairing the culverts on the Kirksville and the Richmond pike, and doing everything possible to place just as much of our turnpike system in the best possible condition for the winter as is in his power.

Gaines Annual Corn Show.

Ed. C. Gaines has announced his annual corn show for the farmers of Garrard county, the premiums to be awarded on next county court day, November 27th. Mr. Gaines instituted this custom several years ago and each year he offers liberal premiums for the best corn produced by Garrard county farmers. The event has come to be looked forward to by the farmers and considerable good natured rivalry exists among them as to who shall produce the best corn. Last year Mr. David Dudderar claims that the corn which secured the premium was raised by him, but was shown by one of his neighbors.

Dies In Idaho.

Mr. Clel Terrill died in Idaho Falls Idaho on October 25th and his remains were interred in the cemetery at Paint Lick Ky. on last Wednesday. Mr. Terrill had been complaining for some time, but letters received from him but a few days before the news of his death came indicated that he was feeling much better, and his death came as a surprise and shock to his many friends and relatives. Mr. Terrill was formerly one of the most substantial and most highly respected citizens of upper Garrard. Several years ago he moved to Idaho Falls, where he has since made his home. He is survived by several grown children, one of whom is Mr. Givens Terrill of this place. Mr. Terrill was 76 years of age.

Popular Young Teacher Injured.

Last Monday morning Miss Allie Hendren was painfully injured by the overturning of her buggy in which she was going to her school at the Davidson schoolhouse on the Buckeye pike. Miss Hendren cannot tell how the accident happened as she was rendered unconscious by the fall from the vehicle, and her small brother, Owen, who was driving, has but a vague recollection as to how it happened. The horse either became frightened and ran and kicked, or in passing another vehicle their buggy struck the hub and was overturned, throwing the occupants out. Miss Allie was bruised about the head and back and was brought to the Lancaster hospital. Owen received a slightly sprained wrist and slight bruises. The buggy was a complete wreck.

REMEMBER THE WATER WORKS BOND QUESTION.

When you go to cast your ballot next Tuesday do not overlook the question as to the issuance of the water works bonds, and place the cross in the square under "yes".

Do not be misled by the talk about higher taxation, this cannot be, do not have this mistaken idea that because you do not happen to pay as much tax as your neighbor, you should not vote because you would be voting a tax on him. Your tax can be by no possible means be any higher, simply the rate will be maintained a little longer. As for voting a tax on your neighbor, this is bosh, if you do not pay anything but a poll tax, your health and that of your family is just as much to you as that of your heavy tax paying neighbor, and Good Water means Good Health, and the extension of the water works means good water. When the extension is made, and not until then, will we have good water, water that can be drunk with impunity the year round. VOTE FOR THE BONDS.

Democratic Speaking.

Hon. W. J. Price and R. H. Tomlinson will address the citizens of Bryantsville and vicinity on next Saturday afternoon at 2 P. M. in the interest of the democratic ticket. Every one is invited to be present.

Slight Blaze.

The bursting of a pipe connected with the private lighting plant of the Joseph Mercantile Co. Tuesday afternoon caused an alarm of fire. However, before the department could turn out the blaze was extinguished and no damage was done.

Farmers Union Establishes Store.

The Farmers Union of Garrard county have organized a stock company for the purpose of operating a general store in Lancaster. Articles of Incorporation will be filed this week, the capital stock will be 3,000. They have leased a store room near the depot and will begin operations on December 1st. Mr. W. P. Anderson will be the manager of the new enterprise.

Remember His Friends.

Col. M. D. Hughes, one time newspaper man, but who long ago deserted the tripod and entered the real estate field, in which business he has amassed a fortune, still has a kindly feeling for newspaper men, and whenever anything good comes his way he is ready to divide with them. This time it is apples, great big red juicy ones, averaging a little over fourteen ounces each. They were sent him from Seattle Wash by his daughter and he kindly remembered the Record.

Sister Of Capt. I. M. Myers Dead.

The remains of Mrs. Mary W. Livingston were brought here Tuesday from Galveston Tex. and interred in the Lancaster cemetery. The cause of Mrs. Livingston's death was not known by her relatives here. The deceased was 69 years of age and was a former resident of the Bryantsville section of this county, being a daughter of the late Isaac Myers, and a sister of Capt. Ike M. Myers of near Lancaster. She married James L. Livingston, who is a brother of Rev. J. G. Livingston the well known Christian minister of the Goshen vicinity. The Livingstons moved to Texas from this county many years ago.

Additions To Sick List.

Mrs. George T. Farris is seriously sick at her home on Richmond street. Mrs. Farris has been quite ill for some time, but her condition at present is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Dr. Amon has suffered a recurrence of her old ailment which has caused her so much annoyance of late and is again confined to her room.

Mrs. Dr. Denny has been quite ill, as also has been her little daughter Shirley, but we are glad to state both are considerably improved.

The patients at the hospital are doing fairly well. Mrs. Grow remains quite sick, but is thought to be improving slowly. Miss Allie Hendren is doing well. Mr. E. A. White is sitting up and will be out soon and Mr. Holman Brown has sufficiently recovered as to be able to be taken to his home.

Judge Walker Recovered.

Judge Walker has sufficiently recovered as to be able to go to Crab Orchard Springs for a recuperative stay. His nurse was dismissed last Sunday. And here let us say just a word in regard to nursing; typhoid fever is a disease which requires the most careful nursing, in fact as much if not more depends upon the nurse than on the physician. Judge Walker secured the services of Miss Margaretta Smith of Richmond Ky., who is one of the very best trained nurses obtainable, and to her never relaxing care and attention is due Judge Walker's rapid and complete recovery. Miss Smith is a daughter of the late J. Speed Smith, who was well known and had many friends in Garrard county, and aside from her splendid qualifications as a nurse is a lady of much grace and refinement, and during her stay in Lancaster made many warm friends, who will regret exceedingly that her stay among us cannot be a permanent one.

Republican Ticket.

We are authorized to announce John L. Dozier as a candidate for Legislature from Garrard county, he being the regular nominee of the republican party.

The air is vibrant with victory for the entire Democratic ticket. It is borne on every breeze. It fills the sails of the old party ship, and sweeps it over the waves to the harbor of success. The assurance that we will win in November finds an answering message in every glad Democratic countenance. There is no doubt or hesitancy anywhere. From every quarter of the State comes the cry "All's well!"

Now that the Campaign is drawing to a close, it is comforting to find the conditions so satisfactory. The Democratic Committee, through its Chairman, R. H. Vansant, tells the party that the organization covers every Precinct; that it is earnest, active and faithful, that no sound of dissension is heard; that a re-united Democracy is marching in solid ranks behind McCreary, McDermott, Ollie James, and their party associates; that the old Kentucky home is certain to be redeemed from Republican mis-rule.

Those who have borne the burden of the fight in the field bring tidings of great joy. They have spoken to thousands, and have carried into every home the truths that have made the Democracy endure. They have preached the gospel of reform to which Governor McCreary and his associates are committed, and whose pledges they will sacredly keep. They have piled mountain high the iniquities of the Republican party in the State and nation, until its defenders lie crushed beneath the burden.

These party evangelists share the confidence which has set the rank and file afire with enthusiasm. They have seen victory mirrored in the upturned faces of their fellow-Democrats; they have seen faction disappear in an unselfish desire to promote the Democratic cause; they have seen former party leaders, and the thousands who followed them into other camps, back in line, eager to lend every assistance in their power to save Kentucky. With these evidences of success visible on every side, is it any wonder that they have brought from the front news that inspires every Democratic heart?

There is no possibility of defeat if Democrats only do their duty. They must not let over-confidence keep them from the polls. Every vote is needed. If only yourself and four of your neighbors stay at home, and a similar number of other careless Democrats do the same in every precinct, it will make a difference of 10,000 votes. You can not afford to take any chances.

The Republicans are beating the bushes in the Eleventh District. Judge O'Rear is personally walking the mountain paths, and is urging the halt, the lame and the blind to come to the polls. He is begging them to bring their neighbors from the "head of the creek" that it all depends on the Eleventh District; and, that nothing less than 30,000 majority will satisfy him. The Republicans are resourceful and desperate. Defeat in November will make Kentucky Democratic for the next quarter of a century, and they will leave no stone unturned to prevent it. Every Democratic hope in State and nation depends upon the result in November. Give one hour to your party on November 7th, and victory is certain.

Chairman R. H. Vansant, of the Democratic Campaign Committee gives out the following statement:

"The contest for the Governorship and other State officers is drawing to a close. On Tuesday November 7th, the people will render their verdict at the polls. The Campaign Committee has not rested from its labors since the beginning of this battle for the redemption of Kentucky from Republican misrule. Its members have worked unselfishly for the furtherance of party success. We have made a clean, fair fight in the open; held men to their public records, and have made no attack upon private character. The Campaign Committee is confident that the Democrats will be elected to every office of the State government down, and that the Legislature will be Democratic; thus assuring the election of Ollie James to the United States Senate.

"The members of the Campaign Committee (and I speak also for every candidate on the ticket) feel indebted to the Democratic press of Kentucky for their hearty and generous assistance. They have rendered invaluable aid, and without their assistance our best efforts would have failed of effect. "The daily reports from the various County and Precinct Chairmen are most gratifying. They bring assurance from every District of an increase in the Democratic vote.

"While I am supremely confident that we will secure a decisive majority, majority, I want to warn my fellow-Democrats against over-confidence. It will take the united support of every Democrat to make the election sure. We are facing a wily, revengeful and desperate enemy. They realize that defeat in Kentucky this year will be fatal to the future supremacy of their party in this State, and that it will have a great influence on the Presidential election next year. They will fight until the last ballot is cast, and we must meet them at the polls in solid array, with not a man missing from the ranks."

There is only one danger that the Democrats face, and that is over confidence. To make Democratic success certain, it is absolutely necessary that the vote should be gotten out. Every County Chairman, and every Precinct Committeeman is giving his personal time to this important work, and they should be aided by the individual Democrats. Take your neighbor to the polls with you, and there will be no doubt that the Democrats will win a glorious victory. If only five Democrats in every precinct in the State remain away from the polls, it will mean a difference of over ten thousand votes. Republicans are active and determined and are making desperate efforts to poll every vote. Vote early, and urge all your friends to do likewise.

We desire to call the attention of the good democrats of the county and the many republicans whom we believe will cast their vote for Hon. John M. Farra to the necessity of coming to the polls on next Tuesday. There is not a man in Garrard county who is better fitted to represent us in the Kentucky Legislature than is Mr. Farra. He would do honor to the good old county of Garrard and would be always looking after the best interests of all the people of this county. Vote for Farra and put in a lick against the third house and for the people.

Judge J. A. Sullivan, of Richmond is doing valiant work for the Democracy on the stump. He is the author of the Sullivan school law which has given such impetus to education all over the State. Judge Sullivan is one of Governor McCreary's closest personal friends and it is a labor of love for him to canvass the State in the interest of his neighbor and friend.

Farra for speaker of the house at the next session of the Kentucky Legislature. Vote for him this time. He will have no opposition next time as he will do such good work as will make all people appreciate him.

Show your appreciation of the interest that John Farra has always taken in Garrard county by voting for him on next Tuesday.

The Kentucky Legislature has always been in need of men like John Farra. Vote for him on next Tuesday and do your fellow countymen a good turn.

Gaines is the man that is going to have a cornshow next court day. 11-3-21

There will be a Pic Supper at Hubble Saturday night Nov. 4th. Proceeds to go to the Methodist church. Everybody invited.

Dyed In The Wool.

The Seven Day Adventists are predicting the end of the world. We are glad that the date fixed is after the November election so that we can have the pleasure of hearing the Republicans before Gabriel blows his horn.—Elizabethtown News.

Teachers Association A Success.

The Garrard County Teachers Association met at Hyattsville on last Saturday and the program as outlined in last week's Record, was carried out to the letter. A large crowd was in attendance and the exercises were enjoyed by everyone. These meetings result in a vast amount of good to the teachers and should be of more frequent occurrence.

K. O. T. M.

The Knights of the Maccabees has paid the three thousand dollars certificate, held by T. S. Elkin deceased, to his wife and two sons again manifesting its promptness in settlements. This is one of the oldest and most substantial orders in the world, and has paid about twenty thousand dollars to beneficiaries through Lancaster tent No. 15.

"Luke" Shearer A Candidate.

Mr. L. D. Shearer a former resident of Lancaster is a candidate for a place on the city council at Nicholasville on a newly incorporated ticket called the "Independent Party of Nicholasville Ky.", which promises to the city every thing which is good in the way of a civil administration. Being a former Lancastrian, we believe that our neighbors would make no mistake in electing Mr. Shearer.

Dull Times Coming.

The Base Ball season is over, the World's Series has been played and lost and now the political pot will cease to boil and the embers under it die out and blow away after next Tuesday. What in the world will the newspapers do with the vast amount of space that has been devoted to these topics? Of course for a short time a part of it may be devoted to telling "how it happened", but after that they will have to depend upon the dear advertising public.

Archer—Brown.

Miss Lucy Pearl Archer, aged 18 years and Frank Brown aged 21 years were married at the home of the brides parents on Tuesday evening, Rev. O. P. Bush performing the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Sampson Archer who resides near Point Leavelle and the groom is the second son of Mr. George F. Brown, who resides near Lancaster. Both are popular young people in their respective localities. They will reside with Miss Margaret Patterson at the old Patterson homestead on the Buckeye pike.

Missionary Rally

On November the 9th from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Christian Church a reception will be given by the missionary societies of all the churches of the town. Some very interesting addresses will be made; three ladies having been invited especially for this purpose. Mrs. J. Q. A. McDowell and Mrs. E. H. Pearce Danville, and Mrs. Ida Harrison of Lexington. Refreshments will be served and every thing done to make the afternoon one of pleasure and profit to the guests. At this reception members will be received into the societies of the different churches. All the ladies of the town are cordially invited to attend.

GOV. BECKHAM.

Makes Telling Speech To Garrard County Citizens At Court House Monday.

Ex-Governor J. C. W. Beckham spoke Monday afternoon in behalf of the state and county Democratic ticket at the court house to a packed house, one of the largest and most attentive audiences that has listened to a political speech during the present campaign in Lancaster. If any of the citizens of Garrard county thought that there were any sore spots on the Ex-Governor, or that he was showing any inclination to play the part of a sulker in his tent, their minds were certainly put at rest on that score by his speech. With all the fire and eloquence, for which he is noted, and which he exercised in the conduct of his own campaign, in a two and one half hour speech, he advocated the principles of Democracy and the election of Gov. McCreary and the entire ticket. It was conceded by all who heard him that Gov. Beckham made the best speech heard here and one that will have the most telling effect in behalf of Democracy.

Garrard County Man Buys Choice Danville Property

The lot sale conducted by the United Realty & Auction Co. in Danville Wednesday was a splendid success. The Fitzpatrick house was purchased by Mr. John C. Burnside of this county for $3800. The first lot sold was purchased by James D. Shelby for $1065. This was one of the best located lots, but the others brought proportionately good prices.

Free Entertainment.

The Romance of the Reeper, illustrated with Moving Pictures and colored stereoscope views will be given free to Farmers and other interested at Lancaster Opera House in Lancaster next Monday and Tuesday night Nov. 6 and 7th evening at 7:30 P. M.

This is the great agricultural lecture entertainment which was presented at the State Fair last month. It is presented by the courtesy of the International Harvester Company of America and is presented at Lancaster Ky. through the combined efforts of Haselden Bros. Admission will be by ticket. All who are interested in the progress of agriculture and farm machines are invited to attend and may secure tickets by calling at Haselden Bros. store in Lancaster.

Family Reunion.

Bryantville, Oct. 31—Mrs. Sam Haselden celebrated the 87 anniversary of her father Mr. B. F. Jennings formerly of this place but now of Danville. This has been a happy custom of this honorable family for a number of years. The children and immediate families who were present numbered twenty four representing four generations namely, Lafayette and Charlie Jennings of Danville, Mrs. Geo. Ballard of Lancaster and Mrs. Sam Haselden of this place, four of the sons and daughters, being located in distant states were unable to attend. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn of Burgin in relatives of the family and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jennings of Nicholasville a namesake of Mr. Jennings. Mrs. Haselden did honor to the occasion by spreading a sumptuous dinner and Miss Lillie Leavelle added much to the enjoyment of the guests with her delightful music and sweet voice in song.

Mr. Jennings has reared a family of which he might well be proud, and one whose filial affection gives him so much pleasure in his declining years, and while his health is very feeble indeed and cannot hope to have many more reunions here, yet we trust that the "reuniting" will not be unbroken in the Great Beyond.

FIRE

WILL HOLD YOU AT ITS MERCY In The Event Of The Defeat Of The Bond Issue.

Do you know why the order was issued for a vote on the bond issue? The city council were contemplating the extension of the water works as soon as possible, but they first proposed to secure an exact estimate cost of the proposed extension and then submit the proposition to the people for their approval. In the meantime the water became foul and the Board of Health took the matter in hand and informed the City Council that unless they took IMMEDIATE steps to secure better water that they, the Board of Health, would condemn the water plant. This action of a necessity forced immediate action on the part of the council, thus is the seeming haste in the matter explained.

Do you know what the condemnation of the water plant and the shutting down which would of a necessity follow would mean to Lancaster? It would mean the immediate raise in your rates of insurance to such a figure as to make insurance almost prohibitory, and probably the cancellation of your policies and the refusal of the companies to take a risk on Lancaster property at any figure. It means that we would again be compelled to stand and watch our property be destroyed by fire and we helpless to prevent it, no means at hand with which to combat the flames. In the face of these probabilities can we afford to vote against the issuance of the water works bonds?

Lancaster will be compelled to have better water, and the only means of securing it is to extend the pipe line to the river. This must come sooner or later, and the only means of extending it by the issuance of bonds. Better issue them now, and by the coming of another dry season the work will be completed.

Preaching At Christian Church By Bro. Tinder Sunday.

A communication from Bro. Tinder informs us that he will return to Lancaster Saturday Nov. 4th and will fill his pulpit Sunday. Brother Tinder has been engaged in a very successful meeting at Central Christian Church in Lexington, has been having large crowds at every service and up to last Sunday night there had been 51 additions to the church.

Civil Service Examination.

There will be a civil service examination for eligibles for the Eighth Congressional district for storekeepers and gaugers held in Danville Ky. on November 11th. For application blanks apply to Secretary Board of Examiners Danville Ky., or to C. W. Moss, Secretary Civil Service Commission, Cincinnati Ohio. No application will be considered unless properly executed and filed with C. W. Moss, Secretary, Cincinnati, prior to or on Nov. 7th 1911.

Will Represent Garrard.

The Danville Messenger says: Hen. John M. Farra of Lancaster, was in town Tuesday and paid us a pleasant call. Mr. Farra is the Democratic candidate for representative and will, so knowing ones believe, be elected. He certainly should be, for he will make a useful member of the Legislature. This thing of sending figure heads to make laws is a farce we are glad to say is playing out. What is wanted is men who are right up to the minute on public needs and matters, men who can and will do something of credit to themselves and their constituents. Such a man is Mr. Farra, and he will be heard from. With men like Farra and Francis Douglas in the Legislature, that body of men would hold a session of which the people could feel proud.

Tobacco Meeting A Success.

The big burgoe tobacco meeting given in Lexington on the 26th attracted a tremendous crowd, fully ten thousand people being in attendance. Good speakers were on hand to instruct the gathered tobacco growers in the details of the proposed ten year pool and manufactory, and it is thought the meeting will result in the success of the proposed plans, as a great many of those present signed the pledges, and many of them took the matter under consideration and are expected to sign later.

To The Voters Of Lancaster.

It has been rumored and published that we are in favor of the present Telephone Franchise now pending before the city council also that we are pledged to various persons for marshal and superintendent of water works. These rumors we proclaim a falsehood and without foundation. We are not pledged to any one for any city office nor do we intend to pledge ourselves to any one before election for any office.

We are not for the present Phone Franchise now before the city council. We pledge ourselves to the citizens of Lancaster if elected we will pass a Phone Franchise safe guarding every interest of the citizens and business man of the town of Lancaster and Garrard county and to elect such officers as will be to the best interest of the city of Lancaster.

TO AILING WOMEN

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many A Sufferer in Lancaster

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well, are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen and worse troubles quickly follow. This is often the true cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that has cured thousands of such cases. You will get better as the kidneys get better and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Lancaster woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. W. Pumphrey, Danville, St., Lancaster, Ky., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills leads me to say that they live up to the claims made for them. I suffered a great deal from backache and could not sleep well. On several occasions my back became so painful and weak that I was unable to attend to my household. Being advised to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, I did so, procuring a supply at Frisbie's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and I was soon entirely relieved."

Eczema Cure A Beauty Wash. 2

Although D. D. D. Prescription has been recognized for years as the one remedy for Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other forms of skin disease, it is now known that there is no other wash, even those used by the beauty specialists, that can compare with this mild liquid for cleansing the skin of pimples, blackheads, rash, and all similar skin affections.

For this reason alone, a bottle of D. D. D. should be kept on hand in every household. A trial 25c bottle will show you the merits of this great remedy as a complexion wash.

D. D. D. seems to remove the cause, whatever the trouble may be, cleansing the skin, and leaving it as soft, as smooth and clear as that of a healthy child.

Zemo Makes Astonishing Eczema Cures.

"WE PROVE IT." No. 1.

Every day ZEMO gives relief and cures men, women and children in every city and town in America whose skins are on fire with torturing EC-ZEMA rashes and other itching, burning, scaly, and crusted skin and scalp humors.

ZEMO and ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP, two refined preparations will give you such quick relief that you will feel like a new person.

We give you three reasons why we recommend and endorse ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP for all skin and scalp eruptions.

1st. They are clean, scientific preparations that give universal satisfaction and are pleasant and agreeable to use at all times.

2nd. They are not experiments, but are proven cures for every form of skin or scalp affections whether on infants or grown persons.

3rd. They work on a new principle. They do not glaze over the surface, but they penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life from underneath the skin and destroy it. In this way a complete cure is effected in any case of SKIN OR SCALP ERUPTION.

Endorsed and sold in Lancaster by the McRoberts & Son Drug Store.

Chocolate at First Disliked.

Chocolate was regarded as an invention of the devil by a considerable class in England during the seven-teenth century. A formidable treatise was written in order to denounce the use of the beverage by monks. The treatise appeared in 1624, but the monks saw to it, by destroying every copy that came their way, that its circulation was small and brief. Chocolate houses succeeded coffee houses in London as centers of a supposed greater refinement, although Roger North describes them as centers for the benefit of "racks and cullies of quality, where gaming is added to all the rest," and where plots against the state were hatched by idle fellows.

A Father's Vengeance.

would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy, of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of Kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. Its best Kidney medicine I ever saw." Education.

What is education? Emerson says that the greatest teacher is not the teacher who supplies the pupil with the most facts, but the one in whose presence the pupil becomes a better person. The great secret of education lies in respecting the wants of the pupil. It is not for us to say what another shall know or even do. That part of the game of life is chosen and foreordained and the pupil alone holds the key to his own needs. Emerson seeks us to respect the child. He re-iterates his plea to respect and wait and see the new product of nature develop. We are not to be too much the pupil's parent. We are not to be too often in his solitude. We are to let him alone. Give the pupil an opportunity to exercise and express his every faculty, and then—hands off!

Saved Many From Death.

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, chestnut coughs, la-grippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well to-day because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe it's the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial free, or regular 50c or $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by R. E. McRoberts & Son. 1-m

He Took Her For a Thief

By DANIEL WINSTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Perry Atkinson, immaculately dressed and with a pearl stickpin in his cravat, was waiting on the platform of a seaside station at the height of the summer season. A number of persons were there, some to receive friends, some to see friends off, all waiting for a train. When it rolled up to the station Atkinson craned his neck with the rest. Like a turkey gobbler hunting for some favorable point to fly over a fence.

While thus looking up he suddenly felt two arms thrown around his neck and a pair of lips pressed to his.

Now, at this especial resort, situated not far from a large city, were many different classes of persons, from the highest to the lowest. When Atkinson felt himself in the embrace of a woman who was a stranger to him the first explanation of the situation that entered his head was that it was a game to relieve him of his money.

Disengaging himself as quickly as possible, he clapped his hand to his hip, where he kept his pocketbook. He was relieved to find the wallet there. Then he instinctively felt for his pearl scarfpin, and it was gone!

By this time the woman who had embraced him—a girl of twenty—was standing looking at him with a puzzled expression which, as she gazed, developed into one of horror.

"I greatly fear," she stammered, "that I have made a mistake."

"You certainly have made a mistake if you take me for a 'flat.' You hand out my stickpin mighty quick or I'll call the police!"

At this the girl put on an expression to describe which language is inadequate. Her face was scarlet; her eyes flashed alternate indignation and fear. Then suddenly Atkinson made a dive for her skirt, where he saw his scarfpin hanging, and caught it as it was about to fall to the ground. Putting it in its proper place, he gave the girl a final glance and was about to turn away when she said:

"Do you mean to tell me that you are not Ben Willard?"

"I don't know the gentleman."

"You are the image of him," the girl added, ready to burst into tears.

Atkinson gave her another look as if undecided whether to apologize or say something harsh, then walked away very much disgruntled. While he had been thus engaged a friend he had come to the station to receive had escaped him. As he walked to the summer residence where he was staying he began to see the episode in its true proportions and to become conscious of having made a guy of himself. Before the day was over he regretted not having apologized to the girl and longed for an opportunity to undo what he had done.

The next time Mr. Atkinson met the young lady whom he had mistaken for a thief he was dancing the cotillon at one of the "cottages." A line of ladies was advancing toward a line of gentlemen, and as the lines met the first gentleman whirled away with the first lady. In the coming line of ladies Atkinson suddenly espied the heroine of the stickpin. This in itself was embarrassing, but when he counted the men ahead of him and the ladies ahead of the girl in question and discovered that she would fall to him for a partner his heart sank down into the heels of his patent leather boots.

When the couples ahead of them were reduced to three Atkinson saw the girl's eyes fixed upon him and shuddered. He saw by her expression that she was about to take her revenge. When all those who had preceded them had sailed away in the dance and they stood face to face the girl turned on her heel, presenting her back to Atkinson in sight of all present, and marched out of the room.

Atkinson made way for the man next behind him, wishing that some of those standing about would shoot him. He made his exit through a door opposite the one by which the young lady had passed, out and left the house.

The rest of the evening was given up by those who were not dancing to a discussion of what Atkinson, who was known to be a gentleman and a favorite socially, had done to draw forth an expression of such contempt.

The next fortnight was one of profound suffering to Atkinson. He sent friend after friend to the young lady, Miss Langdon, with explanations and apologies. No reply came from any of them. When he met her on the beach she did not notice him. Had she shown again signs of her contempt he would have liked it better. He declined all invitations, fearing that he would meet her. But when an intimate friend gave a cotillon party at which he was obliged to be present he was horror-stricken to see Miss Langdon among the guests. He tried to shirk dancing the cotillon, but failed. Sitting in his chair, the picture of misery, waiting while the ladies were offering favors, what was his astonishment to see the girl he had taken for a thief advance toward him, smiling, and hand him a favor.

It seemed as if the tortures of Tartarus were replaced by a heavenly balm. Placing his arm around her waist, he sailed away with her, neither speaking, yet both attracting, from the nature of the case, much attention. When they had finished their whirl Atkinson said to her:

"Only an angel would have forgiven me my stupid blunder."

"Only a fiend would have denied you forgiveness."

Married In Haste

But There Is No Record of Repenting at Leisure—

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"I wish you to be my bridesmaid," wrote my friend Clara Wightman, "and you are to be matched with George's best man. Of all men John Bucklin is the best, except George, who, you know, is the best in the world to me just now. And I have a feeling down in my heart, dear, that you and John will make a match. He is everything you could wish for, except means. But he is self-reliant, ambitious, full of energy and hope, and, after all, a marriage with that kind of man brings more happiness than wealth. At any rate, it brings more zest to life."

I don't know anything that will more interest a girl than to have some one say, "I have a man picked out for you to marry." A pleasing curiosity is aroused at once. True, these partners picked out by a third person are usually just what the girl doesn't want, or he doesn't want her, or they are repulsive to each other. Nevertheless, till they meet them—at least the girl—lives in a world of romance. She wonders what he is like in appearance, in intellect, in disposition, forming an ideal picture of him which when she sees him brings a great disappointment. Perhaps this is the reason such intended matches seldom materialize.

Instead of being disappointed in John Bucklin I was greatly pleased with him. His serious looks indicated that the world was to him an important problem. I had feared he would turn out one of those so-called fascinating society men that I did not admire. He was very deferential to me, but if he had been told that I had been picked out for him he showed no consciousness of the fact. Altogether our meeting was satisfactory in all respects but one. Mr. Bucklin showed us signs whatever that he took more interest in me than was warranted by the fact that I was matched with him at a wedding ceremony.

However, the acquaintance made on that occasion was continued, and Mr. Bucklin became a regular caller at our house. He was usually very busy, but found time to show me some attention. Yet it seemed to me that he was doing it to please Clara, with whom he was on very friendly terms. Occasionally I would twist her with the failure of her plan for me, whereupon she would say: "I don't think John considers himself able to marry just now. Besides, it seems to me that you treat him with marked indifference." As to her excuses for Mr. Bucklin, I did not consider them of any moment whatever. I was surprised at her saying that I treated him with indifference, for I was not conscious of doing so. And yet Clara was doubtless right. If a match is designed by a mutual friend and the man in the case does not make a move in a matrimonial direction the girl is very likely to treat him with either indifference or something more pronounced.

There was good reason why I should marry. The family purse was not plentiful, and father was growing too old to remain much longer in business harness. About that time we discharged our housemaid, giving out that we couldn't get a servant, but really because we couldn't afford to keep one. I did the work that the housemaid had done. When I swept and dusted I pinned my dress back and wore a towel over my head. Father encouraged me by saying that I looked prettier in that costume than when dressed for a ball. One morning I was sweeping the parlor. It was separated from the dining room by folding doors as well as a portiere. At this particular time the folding doors and the portieres were both closed. I heard the doorbell ring. I couldn't go to the door in sweeping costume, but father had not yet gone out, and I knew he would do so. I was about to run upstairs when I heard father's step in the hall and knew I was too late. Fearing he might bring some one into the parlor, I stepped between the folding doors and the portiere.

I had scarcely got into concealment when father entered the room and with him another person. I couldn't see who this person was, but all doubt on the subject was soon removed by hearing the deep sounding voice of John Bucklin. Naturally I was very much astonished.

"I must go into an explanation," he said to father, "for making a call at this unusual hour before I state the object of my visit. I call this afternoon for South America, and so far as I can judge I see no prospect of my getting back here possibly for years."

I surely thought I should faint. "I shall enter into some particulars," continued the man who had been picked out for me, "the reason for which will appear as I proceed. I have been admitted to a partnership with the firm by whom I have been employed and am going to South America to open a branch house there. I confess that I dislike going from home, breaking ties that have been forming ever since I was born, to dwell among strangers."

What in the world could the man be driving at?

"Now, it has occurred to me that—I'm a practical sort of fellow, you know—I have thought that the most sensible thing I can do—of course there isn't much time for such an important move—What I am trying to get out"—

"For heaven's sake, get it out!"

"The matter I am driving at is that I'd like to take your daughter with me as my wife."

"Well, I declare! He wants to take some one down into that barbarous country simply for company to help him through with his spare time. He won't take me!"

There was a brief silence, at the end of which I heard father ask, "Have you spoken to my daughter?"

"I have not. In any event I would have asked your permission to do so, and this very unusual haste renders it essential."

"So far as I am concerned," said father, "I have no objection. I will call Sadie, and if you think you can induce her to consent to such a hasty marriage you are quite welcome to try. But if you will be guided by an older man, a married man, you will not word your proposition to her as you have to me. I would advise you to tell her that this move is the result of love, not an expedient. It doesn't matter that expediency is your principal reason. We must give women a little taffy, you know."

Oh, these men!

But a matter of far greater importance arrested my attention. At least it seemed more important at the time. Father went to the door and called me. Of course there was no answer. He went out into the hall and called again. Then I heard him go upstairs. "Where's Sadie?" "She's below." "No, she isn't." "She surely isn't up here." "Find her."

Imagine my feelings, standing bolt upright in the narrow space between the doors and the portiere, the man who had proposed for me so near that I was afraid he would hear me breathe, angry with him at his outrageous proposition to take me away to amuse him, sure to be discovered in this unfortunate, disgraceful position and, worse than all, in sweeping costume. I surely thought I should suffocate.

Well, I must do something. They all knew that I was in the house and would hunt till they found me. I could better endure to face my lover. My lover—just think of it! Better call him my buyer—I a pet dog for his amusement! Better that I should come out of hiding and face him than be caught eavesdropping. I tried three times to make a move before I succeeded. The third time, my heart beating like a kettledrum, my face red as a beet, I bolted for the door leading into the hall, called to father, "Never mind; I'm here in the parlor," then slammed it to impress it upon every one without the room that I was shut up with my proposer and was to be let alone. Then I turned and faced him.

And he faced me. I don't know which was the more ludicrous, the gaze on his face or the mortification mingled with wounded pride on mine. It seemed that we two rather than take up love and marriage were about to spring at each other like two wild animals.

The proper thing for me to have done under the circumstances was to wait for him to speak. But consider the situation. If it was not enough to rattle a girl, had she even the heart of a fish, the fact that I am no judge of situations. Instead of appearing sensible of the compliment he had paid me in asking me to be his wife, instead of explaining that I had been an enforced eavesdropper, instead of saying a lot of things I should have said, I did what I should not, pouring upon him a torrent of abuse for proposing to make a convenience of me.

He stood listening to me deferentially, attentively and, I must add, admiringly. When I came to a pause he spoke:

"I've seen you in a number of costumes, but I never saw you look so pretty as in this one."

Then for the first time it occurred to me that I was doing the wrong thing, and I became conscious of my costume.

I suppose it was the sudden change of expression on my face. At any rate, my proposer smiled. Then the absurdity of it all occurred to me, and I repressed a smile. I was in no mood for trifling.

"Let me explain," he said. "In talking to your father I was talking as a man to man, not as man to woman. I assure you I have no such talk for you." He came up to me and, taking me by the hand, led me to a seat and sat down beside me. What he said is not to be repeated, but it certainly was not what he said to father. It put an entirely different complexion on the matter and not only mollified me, but thrilled me.

He didn't speak long—there was no time. As soon as he had my answer he took up the practical part of the matter, explaining to me how much loneliness it would save him if I would go with him to South America, for he had a work before him that he could not leave for a long while. I consented, agreed to meet him at the parsonage at 5 o'clock and go with him from there to the steamer, which was to sail at 7.

How I got ready in a quarter of a day to be married and go into a country lying on the other side of the equator, how without a trousseau I was joined in wedlock to a man who had never spoken to me of love before that morning, how the telephone summoned Clara and her husband to be present at the church and how we were waylaid away to our foreign home were and are the wonder of my life.

The County Fair Cucumbers

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

When it was known that George Huggins, old bachelor, was paying his attentions to Lucy Smith, old maid, the people of Crowville said that it would be a good match on both sides. When it was known that there was an engagement there were many earnest congratulations.

Mr. Huggins had a little home of his own and kept bachelor hall. Miss Smith had a little home of her own and enjoyed a small income. The principals had known each other for years, and love had come about through an accident. Miss Smith was at her well one morning to draw a pail of water when she leaned too far over the curb and fell in head first. Of course as soon as she could get her head above water she began to scream. Mr. Huggins happened to be passing the house and heard her and went to the rescue. She was very wet and very scared, and in the excitement of the moment she fell on his neck and called him dear George. Mr. Huggins was also somewhat excited and the first thing he knew found himself calling her dear Lucy. After that Cupid's work was easy.

The marriage day had not been set, but things were gliding along, when the county fair committee came out with the list of prizes for the fair fair still many weeks away. It so happened that Mr. Huggins had made up his mind to grow a big cucumber for the fair. He had grown a monster the year before, but had not entered it. And it so happened that Miss Smith decided to do that selfsame thing. Of all the things in her garden, which she worked herself, cucumbers seemed to do the best of any vegetable. It was one evening when they sat on the front doorsteps in their happiness that George mentioned the cucumber business and declared he would take the premium over the whole county.

"Why, George, I'm also going to raise one," was replied.

"All right, but you'll waste your time."

"I know I shan't. I grew one over a foot long last year."

"That won't be enough this time. I think you'd better grow squash or tomatoes. I don't think we should compete against each other."

The matter was argued good naturedly, but no decision arrived at.

"Lucy, dear, I ask this as a favor of you," said Mr. Huggins as he took her hand.

"George, dear, you can raise onions," was the reply.

"But I saved your life when you fell into the well."

"But the water wasn't over my head, and I believe I could have climbed out anyhow."

"I wouldn't have believed you were so stubborn."

"Nor I of you. I've always heard you were open to argument and were seldom in the wrong. Perhaps we have made a mistake."

"I hope not, but it looks queer to me that you stick out for cucumbers the way you do."

"And it looks just as queer to me George, do you think a kilt of old would have been as snickly as you are? No, sir—he would have told his lady love to go right ahead and given her all sorts of encouragement."

"But I want to beat old Deacon Swift. He has taken the prize on cucumbers for the last three years."

"And he's the very man I want to beat. When his hog rooted up my garden last year he wouldn't pay a cent damages, but told me to sue and he hanged."

When Mr. Huggins left for home that night there was a chilliness in his parting. He was still sticking on cucumbers. The question had become a broad one. His whole future happiness was at stake. He walked slowly down to the gate, hoping to be called back and told that Lucy had relented, but there was no calling. She was also realizing that the question had broadened. Next evening he went down and sat beside the mill dam until a late hour instead of keeping his usual tryst. It was so the next evening and the next. Then it became a matter of gossip that the engagement was off.

As time went on the cucumbers grew and grew. They grew by day and grew by night.

And at last, when the day came that their stems were cut and they were carried off to the fair on pillows, one could detect no difference between them. They were twins. It was said that the cucumber committee would have split the prize, but it didn't turn out so. Deacon Swift drove into the grounds with a whoop and a holler and unloaded a cucumber that took the cake by ten points. Mr. Huggins saw the unloading. So did Miss Smith. They were aware of each other's presence, but hadn't spoken. Now they began to edge around nearer and after awhile found themselves face to face.

"He's a mighty mean man!" exclaimed George.

"Perfectly contemptible!"

"I feel sorry for you after all your trouble."

"And I for you."

"I want to get even with the deacon, and I know of but one way. Will you help me?"

She took his arm, and they walked away, and next month there was a wedding. Some folks have to go through just so much trouble to find happiness.

New Arrivals

Our buyer has just returned from New York City where for the past ten days he has been actively engaged securing additional stocks to take the place of the earlier purchases which had been sold out.

The first large consignment of these late orders are now on sale, and in addition to being right up to the minute in style, our buyer secured some very attractive price concessions on a great many single sample Tailored Suits and Dresses, which makes our present showing the most important of the season.

New Tailored Suits.

There are just about three hundred of them and they consist of every pleasing type and material. Those of Serge and Mens' wear Cheviots in the new mid-night blue, leather and black are unusually smart looking. They are priced at

$15. $20. $25. $29.50 and up to $50.00

One Piece Dresses.

We were fortunate in securing about 100 of the prettiest dresses that we have offered, and the collection is so varied as to accommodate every requirement and satisfy every purse. You will find practical dresses of Serge in plain colors, with little touches of lace and other trimmings, as well as the more stately Dresses of Chiffon and Crepe Meteor. Also a charming array of Young Ladies' Dresses in embroidered Net and Chiffon. These Dresses are Priced at

$12.50 $15. $19.50 $25. and up to $50.00

Smart Polo and Reversible Coats

The importance of these recent purchases will readily impress you after an inspection. There is a marked scarcity of these soft, double-faced materials, and we do not believe that any duplicates can be secured.

Many entirely new models, also Velvet, Velour and Satin-finished Broad-cloth Coats, as well as some very smart novelties in Evening Wraps. Coat Prices

To The Voters OF THE City OF Lancaster

We are candidates for the office of City Council at the election November 7th.

We think there are important matters touching the welfare of the people of the city that have been up before the Council heretofore and will be again. Feeling sure that all are interested in the proper settlement of these questions, we take this method of making our position known to the public.

1st. There has been a constant effort for some time past to secure through the Council of the City a long term franchise or right to operate a telephone business over your streets and in your city. In all these plans proposed if this Right had been granted there would have been a considerable raise in the rate over that now being charged. The interest of the country patrons would not have been protected, as we deemed same should have been. And the people's interests were not properly safe-guarded as we thought they should have been. Those of us upon the present board opposed the granting of your franchise to any Telephone Company under the conditions and forms as suggested. If elected, we pledge ourselves to the people that we will not favor any Telephone franchise in which the rates of charges are not fixed, in which the rate is increased above the present rate charged, and in which these interests are not fully safe-guarded and protected, to the full extent of our power and ability.

2nd. The Council has submitted to a vote of the people of the City the question of whether Bonds shall be issued to extend the Water Works to Dicks River. Upon that question you will vote as you see fit. If you vote to extend the Water Works and select us to serve you as your officers, we pledge ourselves to carry out your wishes in the most practical and economical way to be found.

3rd. Those of us upon the present Council have labored diligently to give you the best possible streets in the most economical way at our command. What success has come to our efforts you can best observe by a drive over our streets and a comparison of the present condition with same as you recall the streets when we assumed the duties of office. We feel confident that you will approve our efforts. We all pledge a continuation of the work upon the present plan as nearly as may be at our command.

4th. We pledge, if elected, to give our best efforts to serving the interest of the people in all matters that may come before us, and to continue to give you a quiet, orderly City by the strict enforcement of your city laws.

We respectfully submit to your consideration, and solicit your confidence and support. This Oct 20, 1911.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, all members of the Council being present and voting affirmatively, on a call of the vote, that, at the general election to be held for the State, the county of Garrard and City of Lancaster, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November 1911, the question be submitted to the legal voters of the said city whether or not, the city shall incur an indebtedness of twelve (12,000) thousand dollars to be used for the extension, betterment, and improvement of the city's water works system the said indebtedness to be paid as follows: by the issuance of bonds in sums of one hundred (100) dollars each, each bond bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum from date until paid, payable annually on presentation of the coupons attached to the bonds at the office of treasurer of the sinking fund. Said bonds shall be redeemable as follows: One fifth (1-5) thereof four (4) years from their date; one fifth (1-5) thereof eight (8) years from the date thereof; one fifth (1-5) thereof twelve (12) years from their date; one fifth (1-5) thereof sixteen (16) years from their date, and one fifth (1-5) thereof twenty (20) years from their date. The amounts of money to be raised annually for a sinking fund and the payment of interest on same bonds is the sum of six hundred and twenty-five (625) dollars for the sinking fund, and six hundred (600) dollars to pay the annual interest charge.

The Council deems it necessary to incur this said indebtedness for the reason that the same cannot be met by the levy authorized by law. A copy attested:
R. W. McRoberts, H. T. Logan, City Clerk. Mayor.

All of the early sowing of wheat is up and looking fine, while in many instances the grain has not yet been sown. The delay was occasioned by the rains either making the ground too wet or hindering the farmer to get his corn cut in time for early sowing.

Matack & Shropshire have sold to Col. C. L. Railey, the famous saddle horse fancier, the prize winning three gaited saddle mare, Billie Burk, by Bourbon Chief. The price is not given but is a good one as she was a consistent winner at the principal fairs of the state the past season.

FOR SALE—F. C. Rex registered stallion, 5 years old, 16 hands high; also big black Jack, Beecher Morgan, 5 years old, 15 1/2 hands high, for further information call on me where you can see this stock and their colts which will convince you what good breeders they are. Floyd Curtis, Point Leavelle Ky.

Caywood & Thomason, of this county, shipped last week to the Pittsburgh market two carloads of fine cattle which averaged, 1,485 pounds per head. The cattle were purchased from Mr. W. B. Woodford at 6 1/2 cents per pound and are said to be the finest lot ever shipped from this county.—Bourbon News.

Much complaint is being heard from the farmers of damaged corn. In some instances the loss is said to amount to as much as a bushel to the shock. This is supposed to be due to the fall rains. The crop which was thought to far exceed that of adjoining counties does not by any means come up to expectations.

Messrs. Catesby Wydfork, of Bourbon county, and Phil Chinn, of Fayette, have decided to ship their mares to Australia where they will be sold in March. Mr. Woodford will send sixteen picked mares while Mr. Chinn will send eighteen. A veterinarian is making the malleian test and as soon as this is completed the mares will be shipped to San Francisco by express and from this point they will be shipped to Melbourne or Sidney.

W. B. Burton shipped on Wednesday another consignment of stock to the Wilson Live Stock Co. of Wilson N. C. The last shipment consisted of 13 horses and 12 mules, the horses averaging $175 per head and the mules $200 per head. This company which Mr. Burton represents, is one of the most extensive buyers on the local market, and every year Mr. Burton gets together several car loads of the best this section produces and consigns it to them.

The Mt. Sterling Advocate says of the condition of the corn crop in Montgomery county: Corn cutting is about over. The yield of corn is absolutely the worst that could have been grown and cattle men will have to buy heavy through the brokers. While a few fields show good ears, most of them will produce nothing but nubbins. Another thing that is causing much loss to the farmers is the fact that the rainy weather has caused the ears which have been in the shock for some time to rot, while the fodder is also decaying, and some of the farmers have shucked out and housed their corn before it was good and hard, thus making an effort to save it from total ruin. Fodder will not be as good as was expected.

BETSY'S POINTERS

Persons born during this month are possessed of much will power, great tact and taste, are courteous and affable, are noted for their wit and last but not least show that they know a good thing as soon as they commence to trade with R. S. BROWN. The store that sells Cadet Stockings.

The sooner a fish is got into the frying pan after its tail has quit wiggling the sweeter and more toothsome it will be. But the reverse is true of the other staple meats, which are much improved by ripening.

The milking machine is as yet in the experimental stage, no make having been put on the market possessing all points of excellence that could be desired. There is reason to believe that one of the chief reasons why the machine milker does not take more readily is the time and pains it takes to keep it sweet and clean.

Not the least of the serious effects of the drought which has prevailed for the past year or more is the reduction of flowing streams to a point where they no longer furnish sufficient power to operate mills situated along their course. In sections along the Atlantic seaboard hundreds of factories have had to close down for this reason alone.

Intemperate is not a word whose dictionary meaning is limited to the use of beverages containing more or less alcohol. It is just as intemperate and often just as injurious to health to rush the coffee or tea pot as it is to "rush the growler." The only difference is that it may be viewed as a little more refined or respectable type of intemperance.

The making of peanut butter is a simple matter. After roasting the nuts to the right brown color they should be shucked, the brown skin removed and the beans then run through the grinder enough times to convert them into a fine paste. The butter should then be packed in glasses and kept covered until used. If the butter seems to be too dry it may be moistened with a little peanut or olive oil.

In watching swallows on the wing this season the writer has noticed that while their flight during May and June seemed to be at a height of from sixty to a hundred feet from the earth their range during the latter part of July and August was from 100 to 250 feet. We have never seen the fact explained. It is doubtless due to the height at which insects fly during the periods mentioned.

Many folks kill snakes on sight, whether harmless or not, when the truth is that those that are not a menace to human life should be protected as voracious consumers of rats, mice and gophers. The blacksnake is one of these voracious enemies. Another is the indigo snake, which is found in many southern states and sometimes reaches a length of eight feet. This reptile is a foe of rats, mice and gophers, is highly prized by plantation owners and is often petted and fondled by children.

Now and then a case is tried in a justice's court involving loss of manure by fire after being spread in the field, and the question raised of what its worth may be is an interesting one. Tests show that barnyard manure may have a value in crop production ranging from $1.75 to $2.25 per ton, but damages might have to be reckoned on what it costs a fellow to get and spread it in case it was got elsewhere than from his own place. It's a hopeful sign—this startling damage suits on account of barnyard fertilizers gone up in smoke.
